YOU MIGHT BE THINKING: "OH NO! NOT ANOTHER ITCHY DOG; I HATE SUMMER!"
HAVE NO FEAR, THERE ARE WAYS TO PREPARE FOR THE ITCHY SEASON!

During this case-based interactive discussion, Dr. Charlie Pye and Dr. Stephen Waisglass will look into some skin infections or reactions commonly found in dermatology patients during the itchy season. They will also talk about possible causes, differential diagnoses, diagnostic and treatment recommendations, and much more.

Grab your beverage of choice and join us for some enlightening derm trivia to help you sharpen your skills and prepare for the warmer weather influx of itchy patients.

MEET OUR SPEAKERS

Charlie Pye
DVM, DVSc, Dipl. ACVD

Dr. Pye received her Doctorate of Veterinary Medicine from the Atlantic Veterinary College, after which she completed a one-year rotating internship at the Western College of Veterinary Medicine as well as a dermatology residency at the Ontario

Veterinary College. During that time, she also obtained her Doctorate of Veterinary Science, specializing in Pseudomonas aeruginosa bacterial biofilms, and began working at the Guelph Veterinary Speciality Hospital. Currently an assistant professor at the Atlantic Veterinary College, she has given lectures all over North America and has contributed to multiple journals and textbooks.

Stephen Waisglass
BSc, DVM, CerSAD, Dipl. ACVD

Dr. Waisglass is a graduate of the Ontario Veterinary College (OVC) and holds a Certificate in Small Animal Dermatology from the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons in the UK. He teaches veterinary dermatology at the OVC and lectures internationally in the field. He has published numerous journal and textbook articles on a variety of topics in veterinary dermatology and has a unique insight into the challenges of small animal practice. He has owned multiple small animal clinics where he practised general veterinary medicine and surgery, while running his dermatology referral practice.

At the end of the webcast, you can complete a short CE questionnaire to receive your certificate of participation.
